What started as an ambition to deliver that 'I'm home' feeling quickly grew into unlocking a house proud expression of your style and your home. And it's this approach that keeps us doing the things no one else is.

We make finding your perfect door simple, and satisfying.

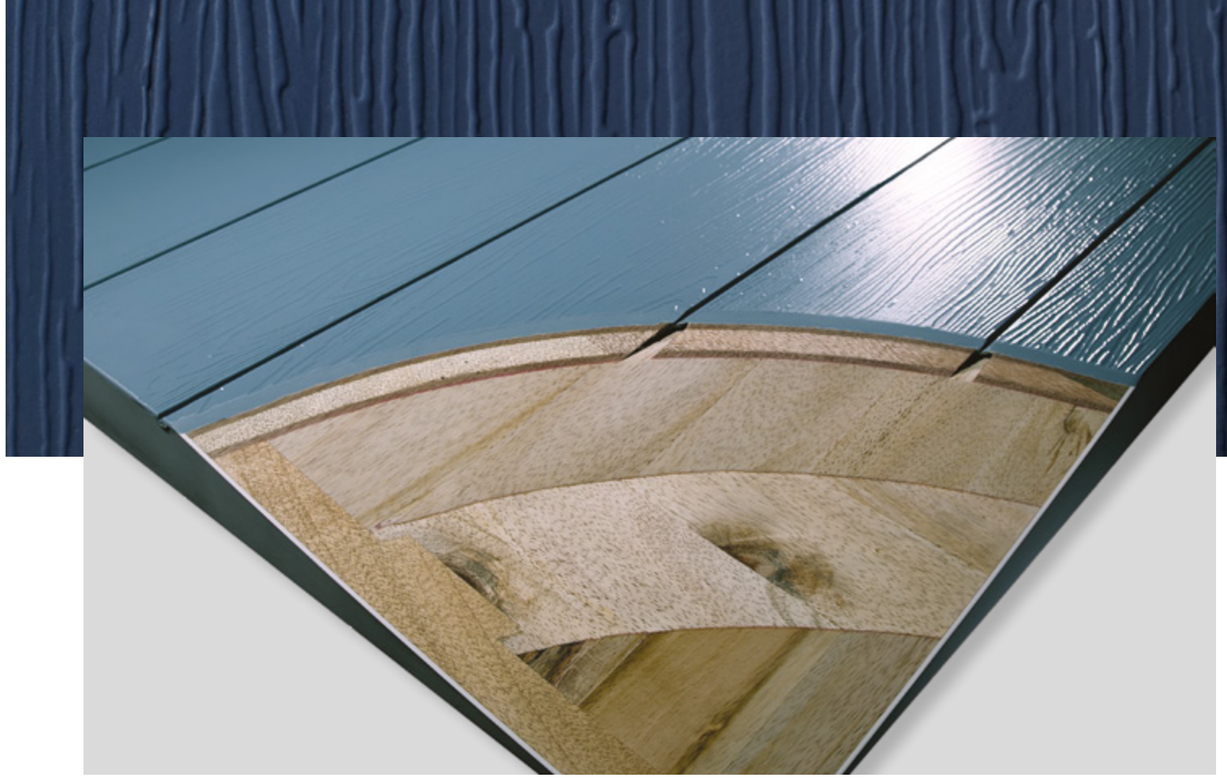
Lovingly made in Britain and locally fitted to last

At Solidor, we're proud to be a British manufacturer, designing and crafting exceptional composite doors right here in Staffordshire. For over 20 years, we've been trusted by homeowners across the UK, delivering doors that combine outstanding strength, security, and style.

Our commitment to British-made products isn't just about quality – it's also about sustainability. By keeping production close to home, we reduce our carbon footprint, streamline our supply chain, and take responsibility for the environment.

But we know that a great door deserves an even greater installation. That's why we partner with a network of highly skilled, local installers who share our dedication to craftsmanship. These experts ensure that each Solidor door is fitted perfectly, giving homeowners peace of mind knowing their door will look great and perform beautifully for years to come.

By keeping everything under one roof here in the UK, we maintain total control over quality, innovation, and sustainability, while supporting local jobs and businesses. It's this combination of British manufacturing and top-tier installation that makes Solidor truly special – creating doors that transform houses into homes across the UK.



Choosing Solidor

Solidor's unique solid timber construction delivers...

Efficient warmth and extreme security with a 44mm Solid Timber Core (48mm including skin)

A strong, thermally efficient, lead-free five-chamber outer frame, with 100%-recycled reinforcing

A scratch-resistant surface, with the entire skin made from the same durable plastic as LEGO® and a solid colour throughout

All the aesthetics of timber but none of the time-consuming maintenance, through woodgrain effect skin

A glorious look to showcase your home, with hidden edge banding

Traditional Collection

The Traditional collection brings together a range of classic designs updated for the modern era.

Door Style: Ludlow
Colour: Midnight Grey

Each one is designed to suit traditional and modern properties equally well with the combination of iconic style, contemporary materials and construction.

Traditional Collection Ludlow

The Ludlow is Solidor's most popular style of composite door.

It's perfectly suited to both rich colours such as red and traditional woodgrain effects including rosewood. The two glazed panels can help shape the visual appearance of the overall door with options ranging from the traditional diamond to the more contemporary abstract. There's also the option of a solid door, which looks great in Irish Oak.

Holly from LDN Family says: “When I saw the composite door, I liked everything about it: the way it looked, the way it shut completely into the frame and how secure it felt. For us the priority was having a secure door that kept the cold out and looked good at the same time.”
